

carding

dye

felting

lanolin

needle felting

tease

wool

Insert text here

Insert text here

The process of making carded wool join together to create one new material

The colour which is used to change the colour of the wool.

Brushing the wool to make sure the fibres are all going in the same direction.

To pull out pieces of wool.

The process of using a needle to stab into the wool to make it join together.

The oil that is part of the wool. It helps to make the wool waterproof.

Insert text here

Insert text here

This usually comes from a sheep or occasionally a goat. It is used to make clothing, rugs, carpets, seat covers and for crafting. Each breed of sheep has wool with different properties – some are more waterproof, some softer, some warmer.

Insert text here

Insert text here

Insert text here

Insert text here

Insert text here

Insert text here

Insert text here

Insert text here

Insert text here

Insert text here

Insert text here

Insert text here

Insert text here

Insert text here

Insert text here

Insert text here

Insert text here

Insert text here